END WINNING SEASON, Warren high's varsity basketball combination wrapped up the 1958-59 campaign last Friday night with an exciting 53-52 victory over the Franklin Knights. The victory registered a 6-4 District 10, Section 2

standing for the Dragons and an over-all season record of 15 wins and six losses.

AND NOW HOB GOBLINS

With nothing left to lean on other than fantasy the daily now comes up with that one about people not reading any more... so we don't need a library service. We remember a similar cry being used by a public official who had more concern for his financial books than he did for his constituents' welfare.

If it were true that people have turned from books to television we could imagine no greater reason for establishing a progressive service that would bring books to them. When America stops reading we really are licked.

But fortunately this is not true. Proof may be found in the publishing business. In the past ten years the sale of comic books has dropped from a billion copies a year to 600 million. Meanwhile, the sale of books, and we are not including paper backs, has jumped from 200 million to 600 million.

To make the comparison even stronger, note that a decade ago the publishers were moving only 200 million books while comics were coming out at the billion point. Five times as great! Today, they are even! The books are growing and the comics are in real trouble, so much so that many "funny" publishers are considering closing their doors.

A recent Sports Illustrated article gave an example of what happens when books are made available to comic fans. Yogi Berra was a prominent member of the ghoul fraternity, reading many horror comics. When these went out he was handed a book and became so fascinated that he bought a copy so that he could finish it. Today he is a book man.

If there is dust on the county library steps, as the daily suggests, it is time we brushed it aside with the pages of good books and let in a little sunshine. If the publishing business is thriving and Warren county has stopped reading we are heading for the dark ages and are not in step with the progress.

That is why we recommend that a professional with bookmobile experience do the job. Expose minds to the pages and good books will do the rest.

Labeling the use of bookmobile service as theory is representative of uninformed thinking. Such service is a fact in all progressive areas and there is much practical experience available on which to base plans for our own use.

When the need for a bookmobile as an important part of a rural library system is questioned we are reminded of the Warren county rural teacher who was met while leaving the Warren library. She had books in her arms, stacked to her chin, and was doing a juggling act to the door of her car. Though the stack was difficult for a lady to handle it was far short of what her classes needed and would have to last several weeks, probably six.

A Warren friend, recognizing her, enquired, "Do you think we need a bookmobile?" Her expressive answer was affirmative with no need of tongue.

Ask the rural teachers who laboriously haul insufficient supplies of books (usually sixteen to serve many times that many pupils) if we need a bookmobile. Ask them if your children need a sufficient supply of books.

Apparently the hob goblin fanciers do not read the papers. As the long line of PTA units, Granges, county library boards, volunteer firemen, and others one by one approved and voted support of a bookmobile service they were reported in the press. The demand was plainly presented in the contributed news reports prepared by faithful secretaries.

Who is it that doesn't read?

TOP TUNES?

We understand that one disk jockey really flipped his platters following a shot we once took in these columns in which we ridiculed the top-ten tune approach when the decision was based on juke box receipts and record sales.

The recent Washington exposure of the vending machine's part in our rackets is the coup de grace. Millions of sales and billions of platter spins resulted from hoodlums pushing certain makes and singers.

We repeat our belief that the top-tune polls are not representative of America's favorite music, currently, in review, or compositely. And to find nothing with the dials except such infantile programing is sufficient to chase you to tv... or good books.

PRESS PLAYS IT SMALL

Some of our biggest publishers performed in the smallest way when a news story broke concerning the son of a famous baseball player. Though the boy is under sixteen the giants of the press world splattered his name over their front pages in connection with a small theft.

The publishers and editors lamely explained their action by saying it was news. The news value lay only in the father's name. The harm lay in publishing any boy's name at that age on a first offense and especially in this case when the parent is attempting to lend his own good name to the fight against juvenile delinquency.

The press pulled out the rug as though it were having trouble filling its news space and would go out of business if it were big enough to take an ethical stand.

If it were news, what were the names of the other boys involved? Why protect them?

TV IN WARREN SCHOOL

In past items we have proposed that conduits be implanted in the new Warren school for the purpose of handling television lines when such a service becomes a common class room necessity as we believe it will. The plans call for something better than conduits. The walls of the halls will be made of steel plates which can be removed easily for checking wiring and for installing new systems.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

PUBLIC LOSES ITS CONTROL

The citizens of this nation, and probably of several other world powers, have lost their potential ability to decide their own fate. Without knowledge of the facts no man can make an intelligent decision, and the American public lacks the facts needed to determine the policies which should be followed in several spheres.

It is impossible for the average citizen to decide what official is correct concerning our foreign policy. How can you possibly know to what degree we should hold our ground without knowing how our weaponry compares with our potential enemy's?

Our lives are in the hands of our leaders who seem unable to agree how they are to be determined. They fail to agree on how we compare with the Russians, how to solve our economic problems, how to improve our educational system, whom we should help and how on foreign levels, and where we should stand firm and where we should give a bit.

The election of such leaders has developed into a popularity contest, much of which hinges on television appearances and the colorful background which our big press can build up around a personality. We know little of their true talents and abilities because in our darkness of mind we lack the knowledge with which we can measure them.

Democracy under such a system becomes a guessing game. Millions of Americans wait until election is close by, even as close as the walk to the polls, and then toss a mental coin. Or they listen to the political taxi operator's pitch, or the ward heeler's curb-stone whisper.

This in the age of scientific progress which has taken man far beyond his depth. A few of us know so much in specialized lines that most of us do not know what to do with it.

It is difficult under these circumstances to bring the facts to the level of the individual and to expect him to reach an intelligent decision. The true source of information that could be of real value has its data tagged "confidential", and journalism must be content to interpret the statements of officials and to lean on the scrounging of Washington columnists who offer you any slant you prefer, with the result that most readers follow only those writers who provide the pitch contiguous to their preconception.

There is inconsistency in talk of balanced budgets accompanied by dire warnings of our national danger and the need to build caves in which to hide. There is discord in this concert from the capitol.

We are behind the Russians in space and our educational system lags when compared with theirs. We are short of class rooms and teachers. And the little communities cannot meet the demands of such an international conflict when it reaches into the little red school house and suddenly makes it antique.

But despite these many lacks our popularity champion, who serves as our President, fights for a balanced budget above all else.

If we are in such danger and if our lacks are so obvious why are we not acting as we would in time of war? Why do we not have a crash program which will carry the fight to the public and bring us abreast and well ahead of those with whom we have conflict?

Either we are not being told the whole truth, or if what we hear is the actual fact we are not being asked to go all out to rectify our weaknesses. In time of war we do not worry about budgets. If our life as a nation now depends on what we spend on weapons, education, and foreign aid, why aren't we forgetting our peaceful pleasures and putting our situation in order?

Why unlimited billions to win a war after it is started, but an unwillingness to prevent it by winning the cold one and making the hot one impossible?

If the concern about inflation is such that it stands in the way of our battle with communism, the public should be so well informed that it willingly will accept controls. The control of prices in our major industries would eliminate the need of increased prices on all other fronts.

If it is vital that we compete with the commies for world trade, why aren't we going all-out to do so? With controlled prices we can move into numerous areas with production they cannot parallel. We should be doing this now while we have the production lead and not wait until they catch up and can match us shoe for shoe, car for car, plow for plow, and pound for pound.

If the public were fully informed and the fight were brought home to the individual, sacrifices readily would be made. If foreign aid is needed, why not let the individual American play a part in it?

Do you need those rows of shoes in your closet? Do you require all those dresses, shirts, suits, and the many extras that fill the corners of most American homes?

The money spent for these extras could help balance a larger budget which in turn could be used to battle our foes on the economic level and bring progress to backward nations so that there would not be fertile ground among the have-nots for communist propaganda.

We Americans know too little. We are asked to do too little. We are making no sacrifices to win the cold war. And the irony of it is that we might be even more prosperous if we made that sacrifice, increased our production, and spent more to help win over the multitudes of underprivileged in other lands.

Democracy isn't being asked to work. And democracy may lose without a real try.

And the reason is that the right to know has not been fully practiced, either by those who should be informed nor by those whose duty it is to inform them.

Through its ignorance and lethargy the public in the leading example of democracy now operating on this earth has lost control of its own future.

TOMORROW'S CAR

We were amused by some of our readers who considered it news a few days ago when they read that the Big Three were coming out with small cars next year. If they had read a little more avidly they would have found the facts concerning such plans in the Observer many months back. It has been anything but secret. We also have written that the answer to much of America's problem with the small car will lie in the aluminum motor which is being perfected. The reason for the need of the light motor is that the wise manufacturer is well aware that the American public may settle for the glamor of a foreign car that requires a shoe horn to enter and leaves no room for your golf clubs, but it will expect the domestic model to have all the room to which we have been accustomed.

This is possible with aluminum motors. They solve the real problem with which many families are concerned . . . cost of operation. And at the same time leave that family with the space it requires.

The first aluminum motor probably will be seen in a GM truck. The makers of the Rambler are making a V-4 which may be ready for use very soon. Chevrolet has been much in the auto news for over a year concerning an expected rear motor model, with aluminum involved.

The importation of foreign makes by all American producers has been no more than a stop-gap. Because of the nature of our production methods there has not been time to get a small model into production. The foreign makes in the show rooms of domestic car dealers have helped them compete during the interim and also have served as a cushion during a period when some skeptics suspected that the demand for the puddle-jumpers might wear itself out.

It hasn't and our manufacturers must come up with answers. Ford has taken the lead among the Big Three, but has done it in expensive fashion and not with the kind of economy which is expected of truly small cars. The Thunderbird has been modified to qualify as a passenger car, but it doesn't fit the budget of the small income family.

Rambler and Studebaker have paved the way and have proved the point. Their small models are selling in large lots and have a production figure which means profit in the high-cost American shop that loses money even when hundreds of thousands are sold.

Ramblers are being made at the rate of 8,400 a week, and to date they number 68,229 models in 1959 as compared with 32,273 in the same period of 1958.

Studebakers are rolling out at a weekly 4,300. A year ago they were making 48 a week. The comparative figures for the total made to date show 33,745 in 1959 to 4,433 in 1958.

However, some of this no doubt is due to better conditions, in the car market at least. Most have made more models than they had at the same point last year. One major exception is Plymouth which is a third under 1958, but Chrysler lines have been plagued by strikes in related fields, such as plate glass and the figure is not a true measure.

ALUMINUM ADVANTAGES

Few realize the effect aluminum can have on our car industry, despite the obvious weight differential. The amount of horsepower which can be developed per pound of car is the major difference that will mean big economy without loss of space and with the power Americans demand. Take 400 pounds off a motor, as would be the case with an aluminum job, and your hill-climbing pull goes away up and your gas bill tumbles away down.

The smaller motor also will revolutionize styling. This may not happen with the first models out, but there is bound to be a major difference even at the least. Place a motor in the rear and you eliminate humps in the floor and many other inconveniences. The body designer has free rein.

We are not predicting that the very first American small models will have aluminum motors, but we do say they are very much in our immediate future, and when you say "immediate" in American motor circles you often are talking about the plans now on the drawing board which may be seen in rolling stock in 1961 or late 1960.

But it will not surprise us to see that GM truck on the road before this year is over and others may rush it a bit. If those production figures we mentioned a few lines back do not continue to hold up, as some suspect they won't, all manufacturers may reach for the moon before fall.

The American car maker has waited to make sure of his market. He wanted to avoid a fad, and he wanted to see a means of building small ones without shrinking his other sales. He thinks he now sees it. It is estimated that sixty per cent of those who buy small foreign cars are members of two-car families. That is the answer.

Executives, managers, and professional people (or those in that income classification) buy 73 per cent of all new domestic cars, and 75 per cent of the new small cars. This is important because it encourages Detroit to act.

The reason being that it can make such cars at the prices Detroit demands. It costs about as much to make a small car as it does a big one. Though the new small models may cost less to drive, they will not be priced much under $2,000 without extras. Foreign cars still will undersell us on the floor by $500. You will have to choose between foreign glamor and American roominess and driving advantages, such as power steering, automatic shifting, and many others.

ALSO ELECTRICS

You also can expect a rash of electric cars within a year. But they probably will not be available for general purchase. The first operators will be employees of electric companies, who for obvious reasons want you refueling your car on the house current every night. If the electric producers can get juice flowing during those quiet night hours they will fatten the kilowatt hour out-put.

Many of the bugs which stood in the way of electric cars are being eliminated. The leaders in this experimental field now have a pair of small motors which can be mounted directly over the rear axle. A small drive shaft leading directly to the differential makes a compact car very possible.

The test model will do about 55 miles an hour and can be driven eighty miles with about 18 cents worth of electricity. It then needs recharging. If it stalls at this point you can rest the batteries for five minutes and they will recharge sufficiently to get you five miles.

Obviously this is a limited town model in which you might drive to work, to town, or to the club. And it could be used for businessmen, such as electric company employees, who do no more than cruise around town.

During the night you plug into the house current and the batteries are recharged. They are under the seats and are composed of separate cells which can be replaced if they go bad.

The test model looks like a small foreign sports car. Many improvements will result as changes and refinements are made, including greater mileage, more speed, and other advantages which will compete with the gasoline engines.

The POLITICS OF IT

SOAK THE POOR

Pennsylvania's soak-the-poor tax system now will be loaded onto the Governor whose budget includes an increase of $400 million. This increase the Republicans deplore, yet they support the President's effort to balance the national budget.

If the sales tax is increased again it will raise almost forty per cent of the state revenues, about $700 million. But the Republicans opened the door about two terms back when they fought for the tax and had it established as a "temporary" measure. They over-rode Leader's effort to eliminate it. Now they blame Lawrence.

Actually the taxpayers are to blame. They accept it because they do not want to look a fair tax in the eye. Even labor shys away from a fair income tax while permitting sales taxes and per capita taxes to soak the poor.

LOST PUBLICITY

If television is an important salesman in the political ring the Democrats lost much by picking Los Angeles for their convention. People are not going to sit up all night to watch the disgusting, undemocratic process through which we choose our national leader. Perhaps this is their way of wisely hiding the unpleasant facts while leaving the doors open if you don't mind missing sleep.

FAVORITE SON

Lyndon Johnson definitely becomes a presidential candidate with the announcement that he will be on the ballot as a Texas favorite son. But his size is being chipped down a bit. His association with gas and oil, big oil that is (not small local refineries), is being made too well known, and Senator Williams again is making a fight against the 27 1/2 per cent depletion benefit which has allowed some major oil trusts to make millions while paying no taxes. Johnson has supported this giveaway.

WARREN COUNTY

On the county scene the Primary race is becoming more interesting by the day.

Eight, four in each major party, have announced they are seeking the nomination to run for county commissioner. There are the two Republican incumbents, Blain Mead and L. L. Johnson. Their opposition to date is Chris Yutze and Clarence Akeley. Pictured on the Democratic side are incumbent Lewis Crippen, William Martin, Mark Summerson, and Irv Branch.

The commissioner race is the only one where the Democrats have shown their colors to any extent. None have announced for prothonotary, but three GOP members have. They are incumbent Ralph E. Sires, treasurer Robert E. Ritchie, and sheriff Larry E. Linder.

Hats have been tossed into the treasurer's office ring by Burgess William E. Rice, R., and John Salamon, D. Republicans Don Allen, Jr., Clayton Rhoades and Pat Ferrie, are bidding for the sheriff's job, along with John Imperial, D.

So far incumbent Gurney Ball is the only one seeking the register and recorder post, although a well-known Warren man has indicated interest in opposing him on the GOP ticket.

Others who are seeking a spot on the November Election ballot are Thomas H. Conway, D., and Wilma J. Toner, R., jury commissioner; Ralph Summerton, D., auditor.

IN THE BORO

The three retiring Warren Borough School Board members who announced they would be up for reelection last week are Melvin Keller, W. H. Cowden and Dr. A. J. O'Connor. Richard Huber, a Republi-

NEARLY 300 were in attendance for the annual meeting of the Warren County Central Labor Council meeting held Saturday evening at the Marconi Outing Club.

In Brief

ROLLED 'ER. Bernard Briggs, of R. D. 2, Warren, rolled his car over about four miles out of Warren on Route 69 early Wednesday morning after hitting an embankment. The driver escaped injury, but damage to the car was $300.

SERVICE MAN INJURED. Seriously injured last week when the jeep he was driving overturned and pinned him was Pfc. Leonard Mahood, 19, of Clarendon, and a member of the 82nd Airborne Div. at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The area man was rushed to Fort Bragg Army Hospital where he underwent surgery for six hours.

Mahood was on messenger duty when the jeep struck a sand bag which fell from a truck he was following near the fort. He was expected to be discharged next month from the service.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY. Douglas Burke, 20, of North Warren, pleaded not guilty to charges made against him following two traffic incidents shortly before 2 a. m. Saturday.

The driver first struck a Jamestown, N. Y., car operated by Salvatore Calimeri, about five miles north of Warren on Route 62. Minutes later a short distance south of that point he struck two young people walking along the highway. They were Jerry Jordan, 16-1/2 South st., Warren, and Robert Verga, of Jamestown. Both required treatment at the hospital.

Damage to the autos was estimated at $800.

can, has added his name to the list.

Since the second ward is being incorporated into the First Ward, the number of posts available is cut to two instead of the present four, and the two councilmen who normally would remain in office must run again. Only one of the four involved, W. Beyer Africa, has confirmed he will seek reelection. John Newmaker is undecided, and James C. Torrance and Warren E. Miller have said "no". All are Republicans.

In the newly created Tenth Ward Dr. Ross Bryan, R., wants to join the town fathers in the city building.

Others who have announced are: Third Ward -- Glen J. Patchen, incumbent, R.; Fourth Ward -- Victor Graziano, D., and Gus Swick, R.; Fifth Ward -- Leon Laskaris, incumbent, R.; Sixth Ward -- none definitely; Seventh Ward -- Robert S. Gibb, Jr., R.; Eighth Ward -- none; Ninth Ward -- Ray A. Marti, R.

The last day candidates can file petitions is March 16. Election date is May 19.

ON THE AGENDA for the monthly meeting of Warren Borough Council Monday night will be a street improvement program, including paving; opening of bids for a new fire truck; a preliminary report from the borough engineer on flood protection; appointment of a councilman for the third ward to fill the vacancy left by Jesse G. Smith, deceased.

QUOTA SET. Warren County residents are asked to put $1,311,800 into United States Savings Bonds during 1959, according to county chairman Harry W. Conarro.

During January purchases of Series E and H bonds in the county amounted to 124,730 as compared with 113,406 for the same month a year ago.

MUCH DAMAGE was caused when fire started in a trailer occupied by the Robert Utley family in North Warren early Friday afternoon. Mr. Utley and his two children had been home, but escaped without injury.

THE BIG TOP IS GONE

I've been spending the last couple of days with the circus--the new, streamlined, no-tent circus. Well, the smells haven't changed, anyhow.

ERNEST C. MILLER

The publication in Gettysburg of a revised and enlarged edition of its popular pamphlet on "Pennsylvania's Oil Industry" is the Pennsylvania Historical Association's contribution toward the celebration of the Centennial Year of Oil, it was stated today by Dr. Ralph W. Cordier of Indiana State Teachers College, President of the Association. Originally issued five years ago, the demand for this interestingly written pamphlet was so great that a new edition was prepared. This has been revised and enlarged, and twelve pictures of early oil days and a map of the oil region add to its interest.

The pamphlet was written by Ernest C. Miller, vice-president of the West Penn Oil Company, of Warren, who is the author of several other oil books and of many articles pertaining to oil history, and was printed by the Times and News Publishing Company in Gettysburg. Copies are available to the public for fifty cents each from the Pennsylvania Historical Association, Box 373, Gettysburg. The pamphlet is also for sale by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission at the State Museum Building in Harrisburg and at Drake Well Park in Titusville, the historic shrine where visitors today may see a replica of the derrick where Colonel Edwin L. Drake "struck oil" a century ago.

HELP THE HANDICAPPED

As a matter of fact, a lot of things haven't changed--the camaraderie, the life at close quarters, the backstage card games, the bustle and movement and tinsel, the crowds, the clowns, the animals.

It's a great life the circus. It must be or why would so many people be so hopelessly committed to it? Certainly not for the money. Those young ladies who dangle from the ropes in the big spectacular numbers and just walk around the ring in feathers and span-gles in the parade numbers get a hundred bucks a week. Everything--their hotels and meals and clothes--has got to come out of that. Everything except transportation. Ringling Brothers gives them a mileage allowance and they can go by train or pogo stick for all Ringling Brothers cares.

A far cry from the old days when the circus train carried them all--elephants and high wire girls--from town to town; when they lived in circus wagons and ate circus-cooked meals. The circus was the last of the feudal domains--sufficient unto itself, each man doing his job in return for which was the absolute security of bed and board and companionship. Today, they're in hotels and motorcars--like the rest of us. A great step backwards into the present.

Why do they do it? I think danger has its own lure. Ask a circus man what is the most dangerous act, not only in this circus but in any of them and he will tell you it is the high wire act of Al Alanza. He walks up the wire on his toes doing his act without guy wires or net (except in New York where a net is required by law), and then skips rope. A compact, little Englishman who seems to be one solid muscle, he worked for years on a low wire. The difference between the low and the high--same wire, same everything--is fear and that is a tremendous difference in itself. "The day I moved the wire to thirty feet, I was terrified. It is a different psychology altogether when you are on the high wire and your muscles behave differently." It's a wow of an act built of his fear and the fear of an audience.

Wauhilla La Hay, the Indian maiden down here fronting for Kenyon and Eckhardt, will never miss it. Wherever she is, when Al Alanza is introduced, she dashes to the arena muttering: "I can't miss Alanza." But once he leaves the ground, she buries her head in her arms and refuses to look up during his hazardous maneuvering on that wire. It's a strange, strange attraction both for performer and audience, a communion of fear, not much different from the lure that brings the crowds to the bullfights in Spain.

The word psychology takes quite a kicking around in a circus. I had a chat with Otto Griebing, the sad-faced clown, a veteran of forty-six years of circus life: "I fight the audience. I don't want laughs. When they laugh, I get angry and the angrier I get the more they laugh. It's the psychology of the thing."

Griebing is an adult clown, whose stuff is aimed mostly at grownups. "I do a little fine stuff," he'll tell you in his German accent, using the word fine in the sense of finely-spun or small-grained. "You know with expressions. I go pretty deep with clowning."

"We miss the big tent," Jeanne Ferroni, the small chunky trapeze artist told me. Jeanne's been with the circus since babyhood and she's known no other life. "My mother was a flyer. My father was a catcher. My aunt was a leaper. I never thought of being in the act, though. I was scared to death. Then one day I looked up and I don't know what happened. Next thing I knew I was a flyer too."

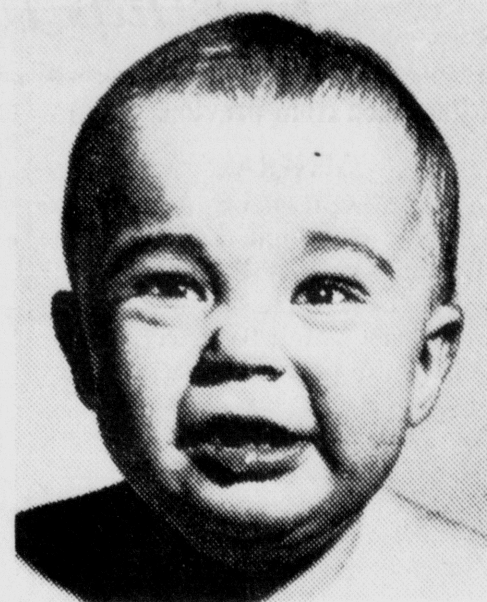

She and her Spanish husband, also with the circus, now travel from spot to spot in a trailer with their children, a little girl and boy. (The girl already likes to swing on bars.)

"Until we got the trailer we lived in motels. Most of them do. It's not like the old days when we lived under the big top. Then you got to know everyone. Everyone was always practicing and you got to know people. People don't get to know one another like the old days. We don't even get acquainted with the performers from Europe any more. I sure miss the big tent."

An hour of the new circus will be seen on television Monday, March 9 (7:30 to 8:30 p.m.) on ABC-TV. (c) 1959 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

"AMERICANISM" was the theme used by Regis F. Cusick, Jr., Pittsburgh, western vice commander of the American Legion Department of Pennsylvania, when he addressed 80 people attending the Warren American Legion and Auxiliary Washington's Birthday Dinner-Dance. Another principal speaker at the affair was Mrs. C. Austin Dille, Waynesburg, president of the state Legion Auxiliary.

During the evening's program the auxiliary was congratulated for reaching their membership quota and it was pointed out the Warren unit has permanently retired the Edward A. Linsky Trophy presented for the third successive year at the department convention in Philadelphia last July. The award is given for the outstanding Poppy program in the state.

THE ADOPTIVE PARENTS

The second of a series of three articles prepared by the Family Service and Children's Aid Society on ADOPTION.

For a couple seeking to adopt a son or daughter, the advantages of doing so through the Family Service and Children's Aid Society are numerous. Agency service offers them protection and security that cannot be found elsewhere in Warren County.

Legal security is assured when a mother voluntarily relinquishes her child to the agency which has the power to consent to the adoption. The tragedy of a beloved child being reclaimed before the adoption hearing by natural parents can be avoided. Peace of mind is guaranteed to adoptive parents by Family Service and Children's Aid Society which is the only agency in Warren County approved by the State Department of Welfare to place children for adoption.

The adoptive parents can be secure in the knowledge that the child has no mental or physical defects unknown to them. The child has been observed by a trained psychologist, a recognized pediatrician and an experienced foster mother. Together with the caseworker, this experienced team can also gauge the kind of home and parents to which the child will best adjust.

The adoptive parents can feel secure that the child is legally theirs, that he has no physical or mental shortcomings of which they are not aware, and that they have been given a child, who will, in all probability, be happy in the environment they are providing.

Many adoptive parents express satisfaction that the baby's natural mother has had help with a plan from the agency, so that their happiness has not been secured at the expense of another's. There is great advantage in the fact that they can turn to the agency for advice for any problems that may arise during the course of the adoption.

Prospective parents should be healthy and emotionally stable. They should have references from a doctor and a clergyman and should have some religious affiliation. The mother must not be more than thirty-five years older and the father not more than thirty-eight years older than the child which they wish to adopt. The only financial requirement is that the child will be adequately cared for, fed and clothed.

Although the agency must have these certain standards for adoptive parents, all applicants are carefully considered as individuals. Of prime importance to the agency is a happy marriage and home, and the assurance that the desire for a child is motivated by unselfish love.

Adoptive parents in Warren County who want a child to love can be assured that, at the Family Service and Children's Aid Society, they will find trained personnel who have resources and specialized knowledge to help them.

The third and final article in this series considers the adoptive child and the services provided him by the Family Service and Children's Aid Society of Warren County.

BIG ONE COMING UP

Plans for a well balanced season at Chautauqua also are coming through. The musical and dramatic programs look attractive and the Syracuse University center offers its seventh season of summer courses, ranging from a choral workshop to political science.

Walter Hendl, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will direct the Chautauqua Symphony, opening with a concert on July 18, and presenting four in each of six weeks. The Pop concerts will be versions of Broadway shows, South Pacific, Damn Yankees, Oklahoma, Finian's Rainbow, Carousel, Pajama Game, and Show Boat.

The Sunday programs include a Beethoven cycle. Tuesday evenings will include some modern premiers. Mischa Mischakoff will be concertmaster of the orchestra and also will lead the Mischakoff String Quartet.

Julius Rudel, general director of the New York City Opera company, will direct the Chautauqua Opera association, assisted by Henry Janiec. The Association will present six operas, twice each.

Tentatively the operas are The Taming of the Shrew, Madama Butterfly, Wuthering Heights, The Bartered Bride, Rigoletto, and Brigadoon.

The Cleveland Playhouse will provide performers and plays from its season's successes. Included are

The Perfect Alibi, Pygmalion, No Time for Sergeants, The Happiest Millionaire, Uncle Vanya, Oedipus Rex, Pictures in the Hallway, Purple Rust, and The Magnificent Yankee.

In addition the usual wide range of subjects in the Chautauqua school, the Chautauqua Choral Workshop will be inaugurated, under Paul J. Christensen. Courses will be offered in choral conducting, church music, and choral participation.

A major art choir will be developed to appear with the orchestra. Mr. Christensen also will prepare a Broadway show chorus for a series of concert versions of prominent shows.

Again we find a cultural center close by for our summer weeks. Entertainment of the finest kind and educational help of a wide variety is there close at hand if we want to take advantage of it. We will have more details as the spring days roll by and summer plans develop.

It's Still A
Woman's

A view of the Porch of the Maidens, or Caryatids, on the south side of the temple, the Erechtheum, dedicated to Athena, the protectress of ancient Athens in Greece.

It's still a woman's world, judging by the number of home-makers, who are doing their family-banking these days at the Warren Bank and Trust. We've taken note of this trend, and have taken steps to make banking easier and more understandable for our women customers. We'd like you to know the advantages of a HANDI-CHEK account, and many more of our services, that can add to the safety and security of your family.

SUPPORT FOR PROBATION SYSTEM. The Warren County Probation Association presented a check for $373.16 Monday to the Warren County Commissioners to support their efforts of improving the probation system for juveniles.

The amount presented was recently received from The Warren Foundation, Inc., which holds the Permanent Endowment Fund of the Warren County Probation Association, and represents interest earned on the Fund for the period from July 31, 1958, to December 31, 1958.

Since the Warren County Probation Association received its charter as a non-profit corporation in 1954, the Warren Rotary Club has conducted a campaign each year to add $5,000 to the Association's Permanent Endowment Fund. All four of the completed campaigns have gone over the top, and the total contributed to the Fund as of 1958, and turned over to The Warren Foundation, Inc., to invest and return the income, was $20,506.53. The payment made to the County today is the interest on that amount.

DRAGONS UNSEAT KNIGHTS

A 16 point fourth quarter rally pulled the Warren Dragon cagers from an 8 point deficit to a close 53 to 52 win over the Franklin knights in a Section II, District 10 battle on Beaty Gym last Friday night.

Trailing 45 to 37 entering the final period, the Blue and White paced by Mike Cashman who accounted for 8 markers, scored 9 straight points to pull abreast the visiting Franklin cagers. Then with only about one minute of playing time remaining in the game, Dick Wilson hit on two foul shots to put Warren in front, 53 to 52.

A Franklin foul shot with five seconds remaining in the contest missed the mark and Don McKelvy grabbed the rebound to ice the Warren victory.

Cashman scored 14 and Wilson bucketed 12 points to lead the Dragons.

The win completed the Dragon's 1958-59 cage campaign during which they fashioned a 6 and 4 record to tie for third place with Franklin and an overall slate of 15 wins and 6 setbacks.

For ten squad members, last Friday's game marked the close of their scholastic basketball action. The ten are: Bill Brumagin, Mike Cashman, Nicky Creola, Craig Johnson, Jack Lobdell, Don McKelvy, Joey Massa, Bill Mervine, Mark Peterson and Dick Wilson. Two other team members, Doug Lind and Arch Hunter, will be available for the 1959-60 season.
